Quality of Childhood Learning

Concept

Those of us who are committed to learning - formal, non-formal and informal - know how important it is to respect the autonomy and individuality of each learner, at whatever age.

Who better to give depth to our reflections on the 'Wider benefits of Learning' than Janusz Korczak -- a children's doctor who wrote extensively on themes within education and who lived his beliefs to the extent of maintaining a 'republic for children' in the Warsaw ghetto during the Nazi occupation.

Speakers Theo Cappon and Helma Brouwers have long experience in bringing to life the continuing relevance of Korczak's thinking, to international audiences in diverse settings.

The event will see a post-debate reflection moment, from 15.30 pm to 17.30 pm, location to be announced.

NB: Participants will be invited to the LLLP Working Group on Wider Benefits of Learning, to be held just after in the same premises.
